A Constituent's Guide to the Albany Common Council: Hop on Board!*

Each month, we'll go back to basics on all things Common Council.

Have you ever wondered how you could be more engaged in Albany? Look no further—join a City of Albany board or commission! The City is made up of several boards, commissions, and task forces that allow Albany residents to have an influence on the issues and projects most important to them.

Once the Common Council creates a commission or board, the Mayor or the Common Council—whichever is responsible for appointing members—searches for interested individuals to get involved. Members across all the boards and commissions must be City of Albany residents, possess a reputation of fairness and integrity, and reflect the diversity of city.

Each board has different powers and responsibilities. For instance, the Planning Board reviews site plans submitted by those wishing to develop land in the City, while the Sustainability Commission focuses on advancing sustainable practices and uniting action on climate change within Albany. Click here to see a full list of Albany's boards and commissions.

The Common Council is currently looking for applicants to serve on the Active Transportation Planning Commission and the Task Force on the Municipal Flag. Members of the Active Transportation Planning Commission will review the conditions around Albany for pedestrians and cyclists to make safety recommendations. Members of the Task Force on the Municipal Flag will be responsible for creating a contest where the public can submit proposals for a new City of Albany flag. The task force will review submissions, choose finalists, and create a forum for members of the public to vote and select the new flag!

Interested in getting involved? The Albany Common Council is continuously accepting resumes and letters of intents for all the city boards, commissions and task forces on our Call for Applications page! Applications for all boards are accepted on a rolling basis and will be retained by the Office of the Common Council for one year.

Be sure to check out our Instagram, and Facebook for updates on openings on boards or commissions that have piqued your interest!
