

Marilyn Kaplan is Principal of Preservation Architecture in Albany NY, a firm that has provided architectural services to hundreds of historic properties in and beyond New York State.

Her expertise in the application of building, fire, and energy codes to existing and historic structures has led to serving as Co-chair of the Association for Preservation Technology International. Technical Committee on Codes and Standards, and as an appointed member of the International Code Council's 2022 Group B International Existing Building Code Development Committee through 2023.

Kaplan also serves as President of the Washington, D.C.-based Historic Preservation Education Foundation.